

Trinity College
Cambridge
June 5th 1877

My dear Sir,

78
If you and your son can come to Cambridge and spend a day or a few days, or such other time as you can, here, it will be the greatest pleasure to me to have you as my guests and to put my services at your disposal so long as you can stay for shewing you the various Treasures of this old University. I can provide accommodation for you and your son and all other hospitable entertainment within the walls of this college and you can be as quiet as you desire.

I was very sorry to miss seeing you at Liverpool at the house of my dear and honoured friends M^r. &

Mr. Butler, but my duties here imperatively demanded my presence.

But I shall rejoice at what at first sight seemed a misfortune to me, if it should be the means of enabling me to be of some service.

to you and thus do me that very great honor.

I am

my dear Sir

Yours with the deepest respect

James Stuart

To. William Lloyd Garrison Esq
Liverpool
